war two in the nuremburg trials, germany has a patchy record on bringing its nazi war criminals to justice.

why? because the goal of making fast cars isn’t quite in sync with having low emissions.

"and when i visit the room i’m not the writer who has just been snaking his way through some sentences on a sheet of paper, curled into an old typewriter"