the next step is to upload the firmware to the controller board with Arduino IDE or other means like an ISP programmer but the latest is more suited for experienced users that will know how to do it.