trials are very thoughtfully conceived and aimed at helping people do better, increase cure rates and help find new drugs.

no significant differences emerged in the women's age, education, ethnicity, religion or history of abortion.